

Take me back down Country roads"

Do you have a secret wish to return to the days of old?...shop in a one room store that's got everything "you need"...buy furniture and gifts handcrafted from Copper Country hardwoods directly from the artisans...dine in a friendly family restaurant in quaint old mining office...pull a trophy fish from pure northern waters...rent your own private hideway where you'll soon realize that Liminga is a perfect vacation home.

Take a slow relaxing step back into the country way of living in Liminga, an area rich in the history of a bygone copper mining era. This scenic triangle of rolling countryside is surrounded on two sides by the water necessary for the production of copper in the 1800's. For over a century copper smelters and stamp mills operated on the gravity flow of water. The last mill, the Champion in Freda, closed in 1967.

Liminga boasts two of the Copper Country's most scenic tours, especially during the brilliant autumn color season. The Covered Drive, west off the Canal Road, is the most popular for motorists, bikers and hikers. For a real "turn-of-the-century" experience you can hire a horse and surrey to enjoy at a slower pace the beauty of the intricate lacework of sun and trees overhead.

North along the winding Keweenaw Waterway, the Canal Road takes you to Stanton Township Park with its protected beach, playground, and picnic area. There's more than scenery along the Waterway. A great variety of vessels from ore carriers to small sailboats navigate the Waterway from April to November. Beautiful Oskar Bay is a favorite haunt for wild ducks, geese and herons.

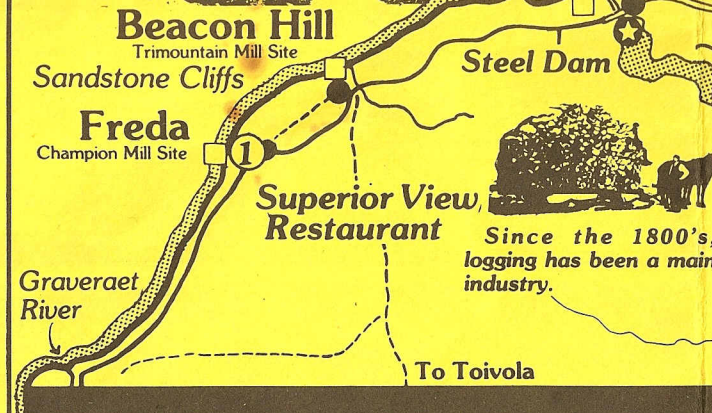

You can see Liminga country-style in horse-drawn hayrides in the summer and sleigh rides in the winter.

"The Fishing's Great!"

...everywhere in Liminga - Lake Trout, Brown Trout, Pike, Walleye, Sauger, Perch, Steelhead, and Smelt (in the spring).

Trimountain Mill, built in 1902, burned to the ground March 12, 1916. Although this wood trestle was later replaced with steel, the mill was never rebuilt. History buffs enjoy exploring the many ruins of the bygone copper era.
